Dear NAFME Collegiate chapter member,

As you know, music is a powerful gift. It goes far beyond school and generates a special level of excitement. Wouldn't it be great to share that experience with others so they can have the joy of music today and in their future?

Give a Note Foundation was established to make that possible—to help make the case for music in our schools for everyone to learn and enjoy. As part of the Give a Note Foundation Founders Campaign, we have committed to raise $20 million in ten years. The national chair of Tri-M and the national chair of the National Association for Music Education (NAfME) Collegiate organization have pledged their combined efforts to raise $1 million in three years as part of our campaign. This is where you come in. We are asking all Tri-M and NAFME Collegiate chapters to raise $200 a year for three years in order to help meet this goal.

We have created this toolkit to help get you started. If you take on this challenge, your chapter will be recognized on our annual donor list for its participation. A representative from the Tri-M chapter and Collegiate chapter that raises the most money each year will be publically recognized at the NAFME National In-Service Conference beginning October 2013 in Nashville, Tennessee.

Music education orchestrates success. Please help us make that possible for many more. Take on this challenge and maybe—just maybe—we'll see you in Nashville.

Sincerely,

Michael A. Butera
Chief Executive Officer, Give a Note Foundation

Dear NAFME Collegiate chapter advisors,

As Chair of the NAFME Collegiate Advisory Council, I am excited to share with you a wonderful opportunity for your chapter to help struggling music education programs in underserved communities. In June 2011, NAFME founded Give a Note Foundation to bring together those who care about music education and want to actively support high-quality music education for all children. Recognizing that access to high-quality, school-based music instruction is increasingly limited in rural and urban areas, the Foundation places an emphasis on supporting and expanding programs for these populations.

This fall marks the launch of the Give a Note Foundation Founders Campaign. This campaign has the ambitious goal of raising $20 million dollars in 10 years, and I am asking NAFME's future music educators to lend their considerable energy and creativity toward reaching this goal.

On behalf of the NAFME National Executive Board, I urge all NAFME Collegiate chapters nationwide to join all Tri-M chapters nationwide in raising $1,000,000 for this campaign over the next 3 years. To meet this goal, each chapter will commit to raising $200 a year for 3 years. This is a very reachable goal!

To help you with activities that you may undertake as a part of this Campaign, Give A Note Foundation has created the enclosed toolkit. Please use this excellent resource as a guide for your fundraising activities.

Certain fundraising activities related to the Founders Campaign may also be considered as eligible service projects for the NAFME Collegiate Chapter of Excellence award. Please contact SusanL@nafme.org with any questions about a project.

Collectively, we can make a big impact on school music programs nationwide – please join me in participating in this worthy initiative.

Sincerely,

Dr. Diana M. Hollinger
Chair, NAFME Collegiate Advisory Council

Our chapter has pledged to raise $_____ each year for three years, and I need your support to help us reach this goal.

Giving is easy!

- You can give on-line at <https://giveanote.nafme.org/donate> and include our NAFME Collegiate Chapter Number in the Notes field.

FUNDRAISING ideas you can use and have fun, too!

That's Entertainment!

- Put a donation box out at both ends of the reception table at every concert. Everybody goes for the food/drinks, and a certain percentage will make donations. (Have a trusted member of the reception committee collect the money at intervals.)
- Have small ensemble play at in-school and free community events; put a donation box in front of the performers.
- Dinner theatres (as well as snack theatres!) often need musicians in their lobby—play for the ability to collect donations from patrons.
- PTAs, school board meetings, and local government events can offer gigging opportunities. You can play free for them (they get attention), and you can collect any cash donations. Have a sign that tells folks that their donation is tax-deductible and how to make out their checks.
- On Valentine's Day, do singing or playing valentines for donors. Candygrams, too—deliver a lolly-pop, chocolate rose, or bag of designer jelly beans, and add musical accompaniment!
- With permission of the organizers, have a soloist or small group of players perform at local festivals, near public transportation, or in front of grocery stores or coffee shops, and near bookstores. Some farmers markets also permit musicians.
- Local places of worship often host recitals. Ask for permission to solicit funds from patrons either outside (if weather permits) or in the foyer.
- Solicit donations from parents, grandparents, and other friends and relatives of young musicians at all types of concerts and local events. Offer a donation receipt on the spot.
- Have a group business card or brochure with at least two contact numbers and a website that you can leave in convenient places and distribute to interested individuals.

Bake It, Make It, Sell It, Clean Up!

- Offer yard work (such as leaf-raking or snow-shoveling for individuals) at a good value for your area; solicit by phone, online, via community businesses including music stores, or by word of mouth and door-to-door); all profits to the cause.
- Put up brochures in school hallways soliciting donations in lunchroom, during breaks, and at games and other schoolwide events. Offer a cookie/stick of gum in exchange for a donation.
- Sell crafts, fruit baskets, etc. at school events and ballgames. Especially successful at a recent Northern Virginia high school craft fair was hand-made stationery. Use a musical motif!
- Sell wristbands or music awareness items.
- Stay with the seasons: seasonal drives (green wreaths, pies in cold weather; carwashes after spring pollination and muddy weather). A gas station may offer a location and water, and many carwash customers will also buy gas, so it's a win-win. Have a trusted adult collect the money.
- Sell citrus by the box between Thanksgiving and Christmas—tell people fruit makes a great gift!
- Baked goods sell quickly in high schools and colleges, and there's little overhead. Make sure you have a number of individual-serving items for those who may only have 50 cents or a dollar.
- Pizza and cookie dough, as well as ready-to-bake pies, can sell well in areas where there are lots of two-career families.
- Hold a book collection drive, open an Amazon merchant account to sell the items, and send proceeds to Give a Note Foundation.
- A multi-family or all-school yard sale can bring in donations and help both you and your community clean up!
- Hold a treasure hunt or other music-related contest with prizes donated by local individuals or businesses.

A multi-family or all-school yard sale can bring in donations and help both you and your community clean up!

FUNDRAISING ideas you can use and have fun, too! ... continued

Take a Hike — or Enlist a Local Business

- Organized a sponsored walkathon. For a small walk (3 miles or a 5K) a person signs up and gets several sponsors to agree to pay a certain amount to the walker for each mile walked. That money is collected and sent to the charity; walker gets credit for a tax-deductible donation. Not a lot of material is needed—just an introduction, a registration, and a sponsor sign-up sheet. If you're doing this for Give a Note Foundation, walkers could wear a sticker or bib-style tag with the Give a Note Foundation name and logo in color. Be sure to thank each participant and your sponsors/donors.
- If arranged beforehand, restaurants will often give 10 percent or more of any order from someone involved in a fundraiser. The chapter adviser or ensemble director would make the contact and get an agreement with a code that the restaurant patron would give when they order or get the check. This can be a one-night, weekend, or weeklong event.
- Getting local musicians or performers to do a benefit concert can be a good bet if you don't need to pay for a venue. If such an event can be held in the school, the only costs should be heat, janitor, and electricity. If outside your school, you'll bear the same costs, and you'll need to leave the facility as you found it, including replacing bathroom supplies.
- Some states still give change back for recycling. In those states, your group could do a recycling drive. Aluminum cans and glass bottles can sometimes be redeemed for a deposit.
- Dance/swimming marathons can bring in money from both admissions and spectator donations.
- Hold a movie night with a musical theme; all proceeds can be sent to Give a Note Foundation.

Or Just on Your Own!

- Give something up (going out to eat, ice cream, etc.) and direct the money you would spend on it to Give a Note Foundation.
- Save loose change for the entire school year and send to Give a Note Foundation.
- Before the end of the calendar year, send a check to Give a Note Foundation for a great tax deduction!

Fundraising Best Practices

- Follow the “Who Do You Know” Principle. Start by making a list of everyone you know. Don't leave anyone off. Include your parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, extended family and friends. You never know who might be willing to help you achieve your goal. The more contributions, the better, so consider expanding beyond your inner circle of close friends and immediate family members. The main fundraising rule is that if you don't ask, you won't receive. Who do you know? Ask anyone and everyone you know, and even those you don't know to contribute to your cause.
- Identify your support system. Some people will be extremely supportive and share your enthusiasm and excitement. Talking to people and listening to their reactions will help you gauge the level of interest and support they will have for your endeavor. You may be able to recruit others to be a part of your fundraising “team.”
- Ask for a specific amount of money. When you say “contribution,” some people may think five dollars, while others may think in the hundreds. Tell people how much you want. Let them know the total amount that you are hoping to fundraise.
- Always follow up. Getting on the phone or meeting face-to-face with small businesses, civic, or religious groups or your friends and relatives lets them know that you really do need their support. One follow-up call can make the difference between a supporter sending a check or pushing the request to the back burner and never getting to it.
- Remember to say “thank-you.” Send a thank-you note to the people you talk to, thanking them for their time and consideration, even if they have not yet made a donation. Many people who contribute money simply would like some recognition and praise.

Fundraising Principles<sup>2</sup>

People give to people. People are motivated to give for a variety of reasons:

- They or someone close to them has been touched by a specific cause. Take the time to identify what interests particular donors in your organization specifically.
- People don't give to organizations; they give to the people your mission serves.
- People give because they are asked. If you don't ask, the answer will always be “no.”
- People give to help, to build, to change, to care for, or to invest. They don't make a decision to give because of the promise of a tax receipt; however, this can determine the size of some gifts.

It's not about the money—it's about building the relationship. Donors are your friends and they play a large and vitally important role in your organization. They contribute to you because they believe in your mission. Getting to know and understand your donors, being “donor-centric,” is important, not just to get that “first gift,” but to get the next one after that and the next one after that. Today's donors are smart and savvy and you should expect that they have checked you out thoroughly. You need to be smart and savvy as well. Get to know them, engage them, and listen to them. Don't waste their time, and they won't waste yours.

Philanthropy is something to be proud of, and fundraising exists to enable philanthropy. Philanthropy is often defined as “the gift of time, talent and resources” or “the love of humankind.” People who give to your organization do so because they believe in your mission. They are proud of their act of giving. They consider it a privilege to be able to help change conditions through the work of your organization. Be proud of the work you do to help philanthropists as they use their resources to help others.

Fact Sheet on Fundraising for Give a Note Foundation

WHAT IS GIVE a NOTE FOUNDATION?

Give a Note Foundation has a mission to expand and increase music education opportunities for all children, especially those in low-wealth and underserved areas. This foundation serves as the fundraising entity for National Association for Music Education (NAfME).

The foundation was created by the leaders of NAfME to engage a broad base of stakeholders, including students, parents, community members, business and government leaders, education partners and other foundations. Its goal is to support and safeguard music education so all children have access to music study.

Give a Note Foundation is connecting with high school and college music students to help with their latest fundraising campaign.

Participating in a national campaign to raise $1 million in three years, Tri-M and Collegiate chapters can use this toolkit to raise money in their local area to help accomplish this mission from grassroots level upward.

All Tri-M and Collegiate chapters are committing to raising $200 a year for each of three years for Give a Note Foundation. There are many fundraising ideas included in the Toolkit, as well as communication templates that you can personalize and use when asking for donations.

A representative of the chapter that raises the most money will be invited to NAfME National In-Service Conference in Nashville, Tennessee, in October 2013, to be publically recognized. Participating chapters will also be recognized in Give a Note Foundation donor listings.

Give a Note Foundation's close connection to the National Association for Music Education's more than 70,000 members and 150 corporate supporters can allow donors to have a positive impact on the lives of 20 million children. This campaign affords the unique ability to connect with schools and communities throughout the United States.

This effort on the part of Tri-M and Collegiate chapters can bring in much-needed funds that will further the Give a Note Foundation mission.
